Drought cutting into farmers' pocketbook

By Michael McQuillan

Friday is Farmer's Appreciation Day in Drayton Valley, with merchants offering sales. But with current drought conditions and the possibility of profit losses, farmers may have other things on their minds than spending money.

"It's not good, it's not good all," says area farmer Keith Davis Sr. "Most years at this time the hay is a foot high. This year it's only two-and-a-half to three inches high," says Davis.

Davis has had to feed his livestock with grain supplemented by hay and is unable to turn his stock out into the pasture.

District agriculturalist Gerald Laarhuis agrees. "forage yield is going to be down 40 per cent this year, even if we get all the rain we need for the next month.

"Farmers normally get one-and-a-half to two tons of hay per acre. This year they'll get one ton if things go well."

The agriculturalist feels the first cut of hay in July will be non-existant for many farmers. "We're counting on the second cut," he says.

Farmers that have not been able to graze livestock in pastures have had to pay a higher price. Laarhuis says the cost of feeding hay and grain to a cow and calf is 50 to 60 cents a day and rising.

"The price of grain at Evansburg has increased 50 per cent in over a month and a half," he says.

In addition, the weaning weights of calves will also be affected. "Instead of being 550 pounds in the fall (calves) are going to be 500."

Some farmers prepared for this year's drought. Ken MacKenzie, from Easyford feels he will be affected less by the lack of rain.

MacKenzie sold more than half his livestock and kept over 1000 bales of hay from last year. The farmer has an extra advantage because his land has sub-surface water springs. The moisture is held near the surface by an impervious layer of fine clay.

"In dry years we're actually at more of an advantage than wetter years," he says. "We should do reasonably well this year, but if a farmer doesn't have an extra advantage like we do — he's not going to do too well."

Tourism group set up

A tourism action committee will be established in Drayton Valley as the first step in obtaining provincial grant money.

Town council agreed to the formation of the committee last week.

Councillor Jean Saunders, who will sit on the committee along with Mayor Bob Mayhew, a chamber representative and three members at large, says that, based on current population figures, a maximum of $232,249 could be acquired through the program for local tourism projects.

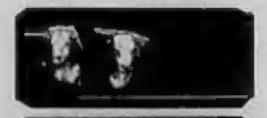
The program stipulates the town provide 25 per cent of the funds as its share of the total cost.

The action committee is required to undertake a full-scale assessment of the tourism needs in town before the government will hand out the money.

Saunders said the action committee must "priorize the items that you would like to obtain."

She identified signage and the upgrading of the tourist booth as examples of potential priorities.

The final report must receive council's endorsement before seeking the funds from the government.



Evergreen Rodeo underway Thursday

The stage is set for the 19th annual Drayton Valley Lions Evergreen Rodeo to be held this weekend.

All that's needed is a little cooperation from the weatherman for the four day event that kicks off fun and frolic on Thursday at West Valley Park.

The big feature Thursday is the opening of the midway. Purchase a wrist ticket and go on all the rides you can until 10 p.m.

Parade route map A2

On Friday, the midway opens at 4 p.m. followed by a heavy horse pull and a ladies powder puff event starting at 6:30 p.m. The always popular fireworks are set for 11 p.m.

A pancake breakfast sponsored by the United Church kicks off Saturday's hectic schedule. It will be held in the curling rink from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Entries in the parade are asked to start assembling at 9:30 a.m. for pre-judging. The deadline to enter the parade is Wednesday. Call Sheldon Fuson at 542-5327 or pick up an entry form at the town office.

The annual parade starts at 11 a.m. See the route elsewhere in this week's paper.

The midway opens at noon with the first Lakeland Rodeo Association performance at 1 p.m. along with the official crowning of the rodeo queen.

The popular pony chariot and chuckwagon races start at 7 p.m.

The schedule for Sunday, the final day, will see another United Church sponsored pancake breakfast at the curling rink from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., the midway opens at noon, the final rodeo performance at 1 p.m. and the chariots and wagons run at 7 p.m.

The fireworks display at Friday's 19th annual Lions Evergreen rodeo will be between 20 minutes and a half-hour long.

The annual event co-sponsored by the Lions and the midway operator has been aided this year by a $1,000 donation.

The fireworks display starts at 11 p.m. and originates from West Valley Park.

Rains two weeks ago caused a lot of problems at the Petro Canada service station in town.

The wet weather, the first the area had seen in weeks, caused a 50,000-litre and two 9,000-litre tanks to float at the top through the gravel. The fire department was called to the scene at 10:46 p.m. on May 23 and it was 10 hours later before they cleaned up.

Recreation director Pat Nielsen reports the arena is now 98 per cent complete.

He told town council last week that because steel columns and trusses have now arrived, he urges youngsters to stay away from the site.

Nielsen said kids have been using the site as "a bit of a playground" on weekends. He added that Spectrum Construction, the general contractor, plans to have an employee stationed at the work site throughout the weekend.

An era ends

Workers begin to demolish the front portion of the Centennial Arena last week — the first major step in the facility's transformation from a hockey rink to an administration complex. The arena's foundation will serve as the basic structure in what will one day house the town's municipal offices, the library and the fire hall.

Ban on fires across Alta.

The Alberta government has issued an immediate ban on the setting of fires in the following forest fire control zones in the province. These zones include 1-10 inclusive and zones 13, 14 and 17.

The fire-control zones include an area north of Waterton National Park, through Alberta's east slopes along the British Columbia border to a point approximately 20 miles south of Grande Prairie, and east from the B.C. border, through Valleyview on a line through Swan Hills, Westlock, Lac La Biche to the Saskatchewan border. The fire danger in these areas has reached very high levels.

Forest users are asked to use extreme care with anything that might cause a fire such as power saws, matches and camp stoves. Dry grasses and brush pose a serious threat. The fire danger rating is very high in these forest fire control zones.

Campaign launched due to rash of auto thefts

A rash of auto thefts has led the RCMP to step up its 'Lock it or Lose it' campaign.

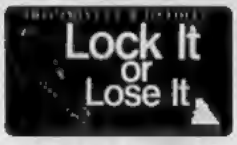
Seven vehicles in Drayton Valley were stolen within a three-day span last week.

The one underlying similarity: all were unlocked and had keys in the ignition.

RCMP Cpl. Tom Turner said this is a frequent occurrence.

"Out of all the stolen vehicles I've dealt with in the last 18 years, I remember only two cases where the thieves were professional enough (to break into the ignition system)."

Ninety-eight per cent of all auto thefts are "strictly crimes of opportunity," he said.



Of the seven vehicles stolen last week, six were eventually recovered. A 1984 Buick Skylark remains missing.

All of the stolen vehicles sustained varying degrees of damage.

Turner said the RCMP will be placing more emphasis on 'Lock it or Lose it' — a program designed to create better awareness about preventing future thefts.

The awareness campaign stresses the following points:

- Close the windows, lock the doors, and pocket the key.
- Put valuables in the trunk and credit cards in your wallet.
- Secure tape decks and radios and keep a record of their serial numbers.
- Don't place personal identification in your key chain or case.
- Park in well-lighted areas.
- Report tampering and other suspicious activity to the police.
- Consider an anti-theft alarm.

Water plant ceremony

Mayor Bob Mayhew (centre) cuts the ribbon to officially open the town's upgraded water treatment plant. Also taking part in the ribbon cutting are plant operator Rudi Merschel (left), town engineer Manjeet Saran and local MLA Shirley Cripps. The $4-million upgrading has more than doubled the capacity of the plant.

Arena advertising is denied

The town has decided to forego advertising at the new arena.

Council voted down a motion at last week's regular meeting that would have seen ads in the form of wall panels and placards hanging in the rink.

Some businesses in town had expressed an interest in arena advertising, council heard.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen told council advertising at this level has been attempted at other community rinks but has met with "limited success."

He added that maintaining the placards is a problem and "eventually the arena looks like a billboard."

"For what it generates, I don't think it's worth it," said Councillor Alex Salfi.

Councillor Charlie Miner agreed, but noted he would reconsider the proposal if administration brought forth a set of guidelines for arena advertising.

Opinions

Vandalism, damage a disgusting sight

It's disgusting to see all the damage left behind due to vandalism.

Willy West campground, while it isn't really officially open for business, has seen their water pump bowled over and the cook shack sprayed with paint.

The Easyford campground has also had its share of problems.

Following a recent incident at the campground, County of Parkland west-end recreation coordinator Ed Haykowski said, "there was a ton of glass all over." Doors were also ripped off two washrooms.

At the park in Lodgepole, the picnic tables have disappeared.

In Drayton Valley, picnic tables in West Valley Park have either been smashed to bits or removed. Metal garbage cans have been crushed.

Town crews have also found a lot of broken glass around the old pool building and the adjoining playground.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen's biggest concern is for children who run barefoot in that playground.

"We never seem to catch them. It's happening at funny times," the recreation director says.

And because of that problem, it seems it's time to introduce the Neighborhood Watch program.

Residents living in the general area of a park or playground, would be responsible to report anything out of the ordinary, at any time of the day or night.

The recreation board could do the footwork to get such a program going and town council could get the ball rolling by giving their 'stamp' of approval.

Sorry to see traffic lights not in budget

Town council has announced a number of major projects for '88.

The list includes a $1.35-million sewer plant expansion; $250,000 for a sewer trunk line to run south of the high school; development of a park, pond and 36 lots in the Northview subdivision and some sidewalk work.

One item we're sorry to see missing in the budget, is much needed traffic lights of some sort, for the Saan/Royal Bank corner.

It's one of the worst, if not the worst corner in town.

Even though there are crosswalks at the intersection, many people prefer not to use them, because of the dangers involved.

Many people I'm sure would prefer to see town council go ahead with some sort of traffic lights at the corner, instead of spending money on new Christmas lights, tree cutting, putting siding on the airport terminal building or creating a communications centre for disaster services.

We're told the lights may be considered next year.

Frankly Speaking

by Frank Ryan

* * * * * *

The recreation board is now accepting nominations for their name the arena contest.

But, in light of the Legion's $250,000 donation that will see a recreation area incorporated into the curling rink to will be built in conjunction with the arena, wouldn't it be easier to expand the contest to include the words complex or community centre?

It's a known fact that some members of town council don't like the word COMPLEX or COMMUNITY CENTRE, but it would fit.

And, it may help some of those donors who want to contribute to both the arena and curling rink, but as the situation stands now, are holding off on any funding.

Won't hoe because of taxes

Letters

Dear Editor,

After living in the area for eight years I decided to go to the town office and get a business license to do yard maintenance for people in town who couldn't care for their yard for whatever reason.

As I live 16 miles out of town I was asked to pay $200 because my taxes don't go to the town, to the county. I am taking money out of the town. A resident of the town pays $50 for the same license. I am not paying that kind of money for five months of hoeing weeds.

I checked out some of the other towns and can live out of town and pay less than $100 to work in town, because they know I need to do some shopping when I am finished my yards for the day.

A lot of people drive into town from as far as 20 miles to work in Drayton Valley. Are they not taking money out of the town while paying their taxes to the county office?

It's no wonder people are shopping in the city and other towns. It's time a few things got changed.

Adele Soli,
Drayton Valley

Resident fighting for lights

By Steve Fletcher

Dianne Frost believes erecting pedestrian lights in front of the Saan store will go a long way in preventing accidents like the one that severely injured her mother last August.

"I sure would like to have something put in there — even if it prevents just one more accident.

"I wouldn't want anybody to go through what we've been through in the last nine months."

Frost's mother, Ethel Thomson, 72, was hit by a vehicle when she stepped down from the sidewalk Aug. 21, 1987 after attending the grand opening of the new Saan store on 50th Street.

She spent several months in intensive care at University Hospital in Edmonton after the accident. Today, she remains a patient in the acute care unit of the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

"Physically, she's doing better," says Frost. "But she'll never recover to the point where she can do anything on her own."

Although a crosswalk was established in front of the store soon after the near-fatal accident, Frost contends the area is still a safety hazard.

And she believes the town is dragging its feet by waiting at least a year before erecting some type of caution lights at the site.

"I think it's absolutely disgusting," she says. "I think, at least my mom's life is worth something."

Dianne Frost

Saan manager Andrew Beaudin says his store is also fighting to have pedestrian lights set up.

"We have to have some way of slowing down the traffic," he said.

Beaudin added that discussing the issue with the town didn't get him anywhere. He said that, at one point, a town official told his assistant supervisor the store "knew the road was bad" before it relocated.

The store, nevertheless, is going to continue pressing until some form of action is taken, Beaudin said.

However, Mayor Bob Mayhew says the Saan crossing is but one of several areas in town that could be deemed hazardous.

He said crossings in front of the IGA and at the Nissan corner should also be examined closely for safety reasons.

Mayhew added he personally doesn't believe pedestrians lights at the Saan store can be put up this year.

"It's not something that can be done indiscriminately. It has to conform with the street system."

Hazardous road areas are currently being studied and will be dealt with following completion of the report, he said.

Town sets mill rate

Town council has decided on its mill rate for 1988.

Residential property owners will be taxed 23.01 mills.

Non-residential property owners will be taxed 29.11 mills.

The town needs $4,339,874 levied from taxes in order to deal with its $6,664,581 estimated expenditures over the coming year.

The expenditures include $900,271 in supplementary requisition to the County of Parkland school system, and $236,980 in supplementary requisition to the separate school district.

The Drayton Valley mill rate has remained at the same level for the past four years.

Property owner's plan purged

A property owner's plan to simplify house numbers in Celebrity Estates was given the thumbs down by town councillors last week.

Jim Anderson, a property owner in the subdivision, requested in a letter to council that addresses be numbered 1 through 12 instead of the usual system.

However, council believed the idea would set a bad precedent and that it would counter the uniform numbering system in place throughout town.

The motion was voted down 4-2.

Volksmarches in county

At a recent Battle River Tourist Association meeting, members were told about two international Volksmarches being held in Battle River Country. Walks will be held in Leduc June 11 and inWetaskiwin June 12.

Volksmarching is an exciting new sport in Alberta. It is an integral part of an international movement devoted to physical fitness to attract people of all ages or athletic ability out of doors to exercise non-competitively in an event where "everyone is a winner."

The walks are open to everyone regardless of age and all routes maintained and are at an "easy" level. Registration times are 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Participation in the walk is free but if one wishes to receive a medal there is a small registration fee. To preregister or to receive more information contact Volksmarch, Diane Dills, 4402-41A St., Leduc, AB T9E 5B6; phone 986-4194 or 986-4711 or Wetaskiwin Volksmarch Club, 4106-51A St., Wetaskiwin, AB T9A 1L8; phone 352-9321.

Drama class ends year with 'Nightmare High School'

Drama 20/30 students perform 'Nightmare Highschool' as their last presentation.

With a moral of the story being 'Be responsible with your things even your text books,' the performance couldn't be anything except the high school Drama 20/30 presentation of 'Nightmare High School'.

Drama students presented their performance as a three-evening special, June 1-3, as their last finale for the school year.

The presentation was about finding who the 'locker stalker' was. The locker stalker was, in fact, someone taking all the items from a locker and putting them in the theatre.

With the tension of finding the locker stalker, family situations, ghost stories and other situations, the six individuals who stayed overnight at the school to catch the criminal all experienced nightmares.

The comedy horror performance had the audience laughing and waiting to find out 'who dunit.'

Club floats with more swimmers

The club has upped its numbers to 84 swimmers this season. Twenty more than last years' total. For Regnier one of the big tasks has been learning every swimmer's name.

"I'd like to get to know the kids better so I can relate better with them," he says. "If I can relate better to them I can coach them better."

Regnier is helped out by co-coaches Kim Klassen and Steven Oscar. Kathy Groulx and Charlene Jenkins are also assisting this year.

Last year the club qualified 26 swimmers in the provincial championships. One of the main goals this season is to qualify more swimmers, says Regnier.

"I want the kids to be faster swimmers but I also want them to mature as individuals," he says.

"We'd like them to understand what their best effort is and help them reach that goal. I guess that's what a good coach does."

St. Anthony's school students learned the ins and outs of bike safety at the curling rink last week.

Provincial volleyball

Skinner's second chance earns spot on team

Clayton Skinner will be leaving in July to play provincial volleyball.

After trying out last year for the summer provincial volleyball team and not making it, Clayton Skinner was quite surprised when a letter of acceptance came through the mail this year.

To make the provincial team, Skinner had to go through three camps focussing on skill and game-situation evaluation tests.

The first camp being in Spruce Grove for a day led to the second in Edmonton for the weekend. The last camp, which was the hardest to reach, was set in Calgary for a weekend.

"I tried out last year and didn't make it to the first camp so it was surprising when I reached the last camp. It was a lot of fun and hard work — nine hours each day of playing and evaluating," said Skinner.

On May 21, Skinner received a letter containing the names of the provincial team members. "I read through all the names and there was my name — of course my name would have to be close to the bottom."

With 20 members on the team, a budget for travelling is hard to maintain but the government has given the team some to help.

"The team members are all 16 except me. I'm the youngest member, being 15. There will be two teams but I don't know if I'll be on the first or second team now but I'll know when they send the rest of the information."

Skinner will be practising with the provincial volleyball team in Sherwood Park and Wetaskiwin at the end of July.

In August the team will be playing other provincial teams such as Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Synchro swim Sunday

Park Valley Pool will be the scene of a synchronized swimming demonstration this Sunday.

The 45-minute demonstration begins at 11 a.m.

The synchronized swimming watershow will be presented by Synchro Swim Alberta.

Pool spokesperson Debbie Brigley stressed that all those interested in the idea of starting up a synchonrized swimming club in Drayton Valley should attend.

Norm Bittner, Shirley Cripps and Stan Bucar turn the sod at Birchwood Village Greens.

Birchwood begins new centre

By Frank Ryan

The construction of a $750,000 leisure centre at Birchwood Village Greens is expected to start before the end of June.

Sod turning for the new centre, that will include an indoor swimming pool, was held on May 28.

Shirley Cripps, Associate Minister of Agriculture and Drayton Valley MLA along with County of Leduc Reeve Norm Bittner and Stan Bucar participated in the sod turning ceremony before about 100 Village Green past and present residents.

Cripps told the Bucar family that it was really pleasant to see entrepreneurs recognize a valuable piece of property. "I know the development will be interesting," she added.

Bittner, an avid golfer who has played the course at Birchwood for years, praised the Bucars for the excellent condition the course was in. "I wish you the very best, and hope your plans will exceed your greatest expectations," he stated.

Bucar told the crowd, "I know we will have a good many years of fun once the leisure centre is up. It will be a tremendous place for all of us."

Doug Bucar, master of ceremonies for the sod turning stated prior to remarks from the guest speakers, "Today marks the first step the Bucar family has for this land. It will be transformed into an absolute recreation delight."

The 100 foot long by 70 foot wide leisure centre that will accommodate 300 people in the second story social hall, will be built in the same general area as the old pro shop. It is scheduled to be completed in September.

Besides the new leisure centre and their nine hole golf course, the 640 acre Birchwood Village Greens includes hundreds of recreational lots. So far 50 of 175 titled lots have been sold.

What amazes Doug Bucar the most about the lot sales is the wide spread interest...

"People have been coming from all over. And, the local people have been very supportive," he said.

Just prior to the sod turning, the Village Green staff moved a new Airstream trailer on to a lot for a couple from Sweden.

After the sod turning Bittner, who has been golfing for about 10 years, replaced the large divot, much to the delight of the crowd. The Associate Minister of Agriculture and Stan Bucar in turn replaced their large divots.

Then, Bucar took the provincial minister on a tour of Birchwood Village Greens.

Hines better than ever

Rocky Rapids cowboy Clayton Hines may be getting older, but he's sitting steadier in the saddle.

Solid placings in the Swift Current rodeo last week has earned the 30-year-old one of the top 10 spots in the world money standings.

For Hines, who has had a pro card for the last 12 years, it marks his first time ever in the top 15.

The saddle bronc rider split first, second and third in the long go in the Swift Current rodeo. He also split second and third in the finals and placed second in the average.

Hines' next stops were two rodeos on the same day — last Saturday afternoon at Vauxhalle and Saturday night at the Black Diamond rodeo.

He then spent Sunday at the rodeo in Grande Prairie.

Final results for these rodeos are not yet available.

Baseball season begins

By Michael McQuillan

The grass is green, the skys are clear and the boys of summer have begun the game of legends. But not without a hitch.

Men's Oilfield Baseball began its season recently with one less team playing. The Breton Royals dropped out at the last minute, says league organizer Gerald Dusterhoft.

With only three teams in the local league, teams are expected to hit the road more often for out-of-town tournaments. An eight-team tournament in Peers was scheduled for last weekend, June 4-5.

Dusterhoft hopes the league can make contacts with outside teams to schedule more tournaments. With the present three-team schedule each team will play each other at least six times.

To add variety to the season three out-of-town tournaments against other teams are so far planned. A June 18-19 tourney is set for Drayton Valley diamonds. Six sides have confirmed and Dusterhoft hopes to add another two.

"The teams to beat are Easyford Colts and Drayton Valley Oilers," says Dusterhoft. The Oilers have also injected some new blood into their ranks.

Three midget ball players, aged 16-17, have joined the team. "We try to encourage the younger guys coming out," explains Dusterhoft.

Penpals meet after 30 years

By Steve Fletcher

Meeting for the first time was almost like discovering a long lost sister, says Sylvia Videsjorden.

Videsjorden recently played host to Annette McPartland — a resident of a different continent and a pen pal for more than three decades.

It didn't feel like I was meeting a stranger, it felt like a long time friend," said Videsjorden.

McPartland is from Perth, Australia. The trip to North America was a Christmas gift from her father.

"She phoned me on Boxing Day to tell me she was coming," said Videsjorden.

The two have been corresponding with one another since they were in grade school. It was such a long time ago that Videsjorden has difficulty in remembering how it all started.

McPartland stayed with the Videsjordens for a week before completing her travels in North America with a five week tour of the United States.

Videsjorden said she recognized her penpal instantly when she arrived at the Edmonton International Airport.

"At first, I was very nervous. But she was so delightful. I felt immediately comfortable.

Videsjorden took McPartland on a tour of the area, visiting Banff, Jasper, Calgary and West Edmonton Mall.

"She liked almost everything about it — except the mud, she couldn't believe the mud (it had rained that day)," noted Videsjorden.

She added that the two prolific letter writers will continue to keep in touch.

"We'll probably write even more often, now," said Videsjorden.

Wiley wins Oilmen's

The Drayton Valley golf course hosted one of its biggest tournaments of the season last weekend.

A total of 144 oilmen flocked to the course to take part in the 23rd Annual Pembina Oilmen's golf tournament June 3,4 and 5.

Tourney spokesman Joe Makarowksi said the 144 players were "all we could handle" and added the weekend went off without a hitch.

"The weather was a little wet at times, but we needed the rain so nobody complained."

Over 100 oil-patch companies in the area sponsored the competition.

Ralph Wiley of Edmonton captured the biggest trophy, going home with a first place finish in the championship flight.

Other flight winners included:

Dave Boulter (first flight); Brad Turnbull (second); James Novosel (third); Ken Landsiedel (fourth); Doug Morrice (fifth); Ernie Schwandt (sixth); Rodger Palmer (seventh); Brian Hansen (eighth); Terry Wallin (ninth); Randy McNally (10th); Al Thomas (11th); Al Young (12th); Garry Farr (13th); Mark Borle (14th); Marv Helm (15th); Garry Burns (16th); and Peter Ference (17th).

Recycling money

More than 100 trees part of beauty plan

Gunther Schmidt is burying $15,000 around the Black Gold Inn

Before you grab your shovel and treasure map and start digging up the property you should realize the money Schmidt's burying is in the form of trees

Schmidt, owner of the inn, recently had more than 100 trees planted as part of a beautification project. Balsam fir aspen, lodgepole pine and other trees now adorn the area

For Schmidt it was a dream come true after years of planning. "We'd been thinking about it for two years but didn't have the money," he says

The innkeeper hopes his project will encourage other businesses and homeowners to spruce things up. "Somebody has to plant trees today if there's going to be any in the future," explains Schmidt

Blue Flame Torch Relay needs seniors

By Alister Thomas

Just as the 1988 Olympic torch relay touched the hearts of every Canadian, the Blue Flame Torch Relay should be just as emotional.

Eleven hundred seniors (55 years of age and over) are going to walk, run and wheel (wheelchair and bicycle) themselves one kilometre for 1,100 kilometres across the northern part of the province for 20 days this summer as the lead-up to the Alberta Senior Games which will involve 900 participants in 23 medal events from Aug. 4 to 6 inclusive.

Sponsored by Northwestern Utilities, the Blue Flame Torch Relay should be an event that stirs the provincial soul.

This relay will start July 18 in Grande Prairie, the site of the 1986 Alberta Senior Games and travel through such centres as Athabasca, Edmonton, Leduc, Camrose and Vegreville before finishing in Vermilion to open the 1988 Alberta Senior Games.

Right now relay organizers need Alberta seniors to participate in this historic event. Registration forms are available from branch offices of the Alberta Senior Citizens Sport and Recreation Association or from the Alberta Sport Council.

Alberta road maps are now available

A wide range of business was dealt with at last month's meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA).

The new 1988 saleable Alberta road maps are in stock. Any BRTA members may purchase Alberta, City of Edmonton, City of Calgary adn BC/Saskatchewan maps at wholesale prices.

In connection with the promotion of events and tourism facilities in east central Alberta, members gave the nod to a $8,000 radio/print summer promotional program.

BRTA will be assisting with the operation of 17 TICs throughout the Zone 5 region. Association Manager Sylvia Clemens advised that all centres have been supplied with 1988 literature and all staff will receive training during the month of June.

The customer service award program is geared to encourage frontline employees to offer service of excellence to all customers, as well in hand. The printed material for the program is available to all BRTA members and may be picked up at the association office. The duration of the program is June, July and August.

It's now official that BRTA will relocate its office to 6036-48 Avenue, Grand Park Plaza, Camrose. "We're just moving across the highway to a space more conducive to the needs of the organization," said BRTA president Bryce Woodrow.

Acting on a recommendation from the BRTA executive, members moved to discontinue the bus tour program effective Jan. 1, 1989. This decision was based on a number of factors including the number of bus tour operators now in the the area and on the added responsibilities on the BRTA administration through the newly announced team tourism program.

Bring fact sheet to interview

By Tracey Vatter
Hire A Student

Today Nathon is going to fill out application forms.

Most employers prefer that you fill out the application while you are there, so Nathon brings along his personal fact sheet, that contains all the information needed to complete an application form

Preparing a fact sheet lets you check the spelling and accuracy of past employer/company names, addresses and telephone numbers. It also helps refresh your memory so you can answer interview questions more effectively if necessary.

Tracey Vatter, manager Hire A Student

Personal data

This includes Nathon printing his name, birth date, home address, mailing address, a telephone number where he can be reached and a social insurance number, driver's license and Alberta Health Care number

Education

Nathon begins by listing all types of education he has had to date. Then he writes all the clubs, sports, hobbies and volunteer work he has participated in. He describes the work involved, time spent on the job and the skills acquired. He also lists any awards, achievements or work experience he has had.

Experience

Nathon divides this section into categories to help him identify his skills and responsibilities. For each job position held, Nathon completes a very specific description of his duties and the skills developed through performing them.

References

References should come from someone you know in a work-related environment. The references Nathon puts down vouch for his character and work habits and do not have to be "status" people.

When asking permission to use someone as a reference, if possible, tell them the position you are applying for. If Nathon had limited employment experience, he could use teachers, church ministers and next-door neighbors as references.

After writing this fact sheet Nathon is confident in going out and applying for jobs.

He does, however, find one employer who prefers a resume, so stay tuned to find out how Nathon writes a resume.

Bluffton man pleads guilty

A Bluffton, Alberta man has been sentenced to 14 days in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to provide breath samples.

Warren Lynn Werner, 24, appeared in Drayton Valley Provincial Court last week.

He was also prohibited from driving for a period of 12 months

Werner was convicted of a related offence in 1987.

Fatal farm accidents declining

The number of fatal farm accidents in Alberta continues to be well below the previous 10-year average, according to figures contained in Alberta Agriculture's 1987 farm fatality report.

There were 17 fatal farm accidents in the province in 1987 with farm machinery again involved in the majority of cases, says the report which has just been released

Although there were four more fatalities in 1987 than there were in 1986, the report shows there were 35 per cent fewer deaths last year compared to the yearly average reported from 1976 to 1986

The farm fatality report which presents statistics on accidental deaths occurring on Alberta farms last year, also outlines the circumstances related to the accidents.

The report indicates that mishaps with machinery lead the list of fatal accidents, with tractors alone claiming six lives Other causes of fatal accidents included contact with overhead power lines, the snapping of a tow chain and drowning.

Further information on the report may be obtained from Solomon Kyeremanteng, manager, farm safety program, Alberta Agriculture, Edmonton, phone 427-2168

Auxiliary members honored

The three longest-serving members of the RCMP auxiliary force were honored recently

Steve Krawchuk, Joseph Stenger and Glen Wood were presented with plaques at an informal ceremony May 27 at the detachment

Wood has served as an auxiliary since November 1978; Krawchuk joined in August 1980; Stenger has worked as an auxiliary in Breton, Evansburg and Drayton Valley and has a total of six years experience.

The plaques, presented by Cpl. Tim Vatamaniuck, were all for service in excess of five years.

For auxiliary member Stenger, the years of service have led to a possible career in law enforcement in Manitoba

Stenger is attempting to join the Winnipeg City Police force and will know if he has been selected in early July

"I've pushed ahead of those without any experience," said Stenger, who has been on the auxiliary in Drayton Valley for about a year

He added that he's been interested in law enforcement for a number of years, having first joined up with the Breton auxiliary following conversations about police work with a friend who was an officer working at the detachment

Severe weather season upon us

Environment Canada's Atmospheric Environment Service would like Albertans to be aware that the summer severe weather season is upon us.

Summer severe weather usually begins in mid-May until mid September and brings with it the threat of high winds, lightning hail, flooding and tornadoes.

"We certainly don't want to alarm anyone, but it is that time of year again, and after last summer's tornado it became quite clear we all need to be better informed about the potential severity of our summer weather," said Brian O Donnell, regional director of the Atmospheric Environment Service.

"But more than that we all need to be better prepared to protect ourselves, our families and our property," O Donnell added.

"In response to the review of the Edmonton tornado and the obvious need for increased public awareness we have taken a number of steps in cooperation with Emergency Preparedness Canada and Alberta Public Safety Services. In the area of meteorology we have begun using new terminology for watches and warnings. In terms of improved communications, we have replaced the equipment in our Edmonton weatheradio studio and finally, to increase public awareness we have produced a public safety video, "Stay Alert. Stay Alive," said O'Donnell.

The video is available in both French and English and is of interest to schools, businesses, safety organizations and groups and individuals. It will be broadcast throughout Alberta on local cable stations, will be available to teachers through ACCESS's Media Resource Centre.

Summer students provide extra pair of hands on the farm

A central Alberta farm family says they've had good success in hiring summer students for farm work under a provincial program.

Charles and Molly Osterland of Ponoka say the Alberta Agriculture summer farm employment program has provided them with an extra pair of hands when the workload is greatest and at the same time provided a high school student with a job and work experience.

"We've hired students for several years," says Molly Osterland. "And using last year as an example, it has just been excellent. We hired this young man to help with odd jobs as well as regular farm work and he was terrific."

The Osterlands operate a mixed farm that includes cattle, hogs, grain and hay production. Mrs. Osterland says the student proved to be a reliable worker in all areas of the operation.

"We were away at times and we just didn't worry because we knew he was responsible and would get the job done," she says. "Whether he was mowing the lawn or operating the tractor with the large round baler he was conscientious and hard working.

"We would heartily recommend the program to any farmers needing summer help."

Since its introduction 17 years ago, the annual program has found summer employment for some 31,000 students while helping farmers meet their seasonal labor requirements.

Under the program, any full time Alberta farmer is eligible to hire a student and receive assistance in paying his or her wages. The Alberta government will pay half the employee's monthly wage, to a maximum of $300, for each month of the program. Jobs will run from July 2 to Aug. 31.

Application forms are available through Alberta Agriculture district offices or through local Agriculture Employment Service offices. Student applicants must be at least 15 years of age, and farmers may not apply to employ family members under the program.

Communities preparing for season of agricultural fairs

By Bev Broka
District home economist

Come on down to your local agricultural fair!

Soon it will be fair time in many Alberta communities, with each offering a lot of fun to both participants and spectators.

Locally, the Drayton Valley fair is scheduled for Aug. 26 and 27 at the curling rink and the Breton Ag fair for July 1 at their high school. Fair books for both are available from various local businesses or from my office at Alberta Agriculture.

A fair has something to offer everyone. For many individuals a number of new ideas are learned simply by viewing the exhibits and displays. For others, there's the satisfaction of entering an item and learning who got prizes in various categories.

Last year there were over 1800 entries in the Drayton Valley fair. Why do so many people choose to submit exhibits for judging at the fair? Is first prize the only objective? Probably not.

At a recent exhibitor's workshop held, the participants listed education, encouragement of high standards, recognition, community spirit, satisfaction, new ideas, curiosity and fun as reasons why they exhibit in the local fair. Every exhibitor would however, like to go home with a prize ribbon. The judge, on the other hand, cannot give everyone a first place.

Exhibitors and judges must share a mutual respect and each have certain expectations of one antoher. A competitor should enter the competition with an open mind and realize it is the judge's opinion and the quality of other competing entries which decide how well an entry is rated.

Similarly, the judge must have realistic expectations of the classes being judged while at the same time maintain a high enough standard of quality workmanship.

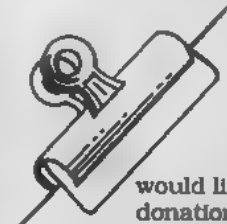
Rating articles is not always as simple as it seems. The judge must apply basic product standards to the article as well as look at suitable techniques and methods used for each item. By doing so, the judge can then make a fair decision. His/her written comments can help the exhibitor improve for the following year.

As an exhibitor it's important to read through the prize list carefully. Knowing and adhering to the rules and specifications for the fair and each class entered is important. This will help to ensure against disqualification.

As well, be sure to have your entry there on time. Late registrations may not be accepted. The entry should be clearly and properly labelled. Know and identify the class your item is to be entered in. Neatness in presentation of the entry is also important. Check to see that it is clean, creative and most importantly, in accordance with the specifications in the prize list.

Competition at a local fair is a way to develop pride and confidence in doing quality work. It is also an opportunity to demonstrate your skills and talents to others. Most importantly though, it's a time to learn and to have fun.

See you at the fair!



Thank You!

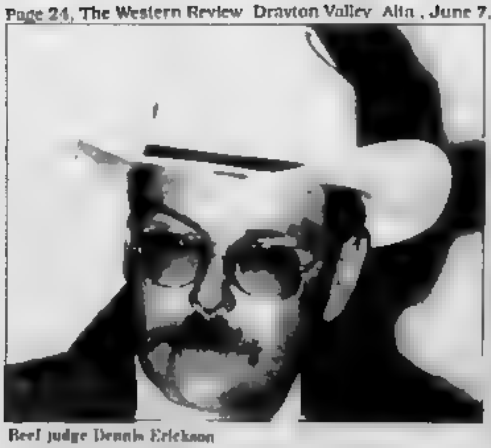
4-H'ers put on beefy display

Stories and photos by Michael McQuillan

Four local 4-H clubs held their annual beef show at Manuel Schultz's, Lazy S Limousin Ranch, May 30.

The judging was followed by an auction. More than 50 animals were sold with $1.50 a pound being the top price paid.



Beef judge Dennis Erickson

Beef judge uses humor

A sense of humor and the ability to speak confidently in public are useful tools. For Dennis Erickson those skills help him avoid conflict.

Erickson is a beef judge who recently judged the local 4-H beef show Monday May 30. He feels his job is to judge and communicate his ideas to the audience.

Being a judge is kind of tough because the only people you make happy are those [illegible] yourself," he says.

I like to try and get some involvement with the crowd and explain my decision to them," says Erickson. He also trys to make the situation less stressful. Humor helps because everybody is so serious."

Erickson, who owns Get-along stock farm in Wetaskiwin, believes beef judging benefits his business. "We see where we can make improvements. I also make a lot of connections.

Erickson's reputation as a judge has earned him invitations to work shows across Canada including Toronto and Vancouver.

I'm looking for what consumers are interested in when I judge beef," he says. Erickson believes consumers have changed their tastes.

Consumers want leaner beef with little fat." His judging [illegible] animals. Two years ago a 1,400-pound steer would have won, today a much smaller steer won," says Erickson.

He believes his success as a judge and a private breeder began in a similar fashion as those he judged last Monday. "I owe a lot of credit to 4-H especially through the public speaking part. It helps to build confidence and gives one the desire to be better," he says.

Lee-anne Vig resting on Ernie

If you had invited Lee-anne Vig and her pet Ernie over to your house you would have needed to reinforce the floors and clear away the furniture.

You see Ernie was Lee-anne's 1,185 pound hereford. She began training with the hefty bull seven months ago to ready him for competition.

In the recent 4-H beef show Ernie and Lee-anne came through with flying colors. The duo received a second place in the junior category for showmanship. They also earned the spot as the Two Rivers club grand champion.

Practising every day after school and on weekends was a ritual for the barn yard pair. Lee-anne was accompanied by two brothers and their animals in the daily training.

"We competed against each other and the loser had to buy the other two pizza," she says.

[illegible] things come to pass as Lee-anne recently discovered. After spending months working as a team Ernie took the fatal path to the slaughter house.

Lee-anne was disappointed at giving up Ernie after his fine showing but glad for the $1,185 she made in the auction. "I'm going to deposit some money in the bank and go to the city and buy some clothes," says Lee-anne.

School boards pleased with revisions to the new school act

Separate school boards, which expressed opposition with the original draft of the new School Act, are happy with revisions made to the document.

The new School Act was introduced in the legislature May 5.

"Overall, the minister (Education Minister Nancy Betkowski) has listened very carefully to the concerns of our boards," said Drayton Valley separate school board superintendent Eugene Miller.

Separate school boards were especially pleased with a section of the new act's preamble which describes separate schools as "publicly funded and exactly the same as public schools," Miller said.

This declaration was not included originally, which raised the ire of the separate school's provincial association.

The funding of both school systems has also been revised.

If the new act is passed funds from undeclared property owners will be split in terms of the number of students in the schools.

Miller said the declaration will take effect when a change of ownership takes place. The declaration is initiated by the land titles office.

Miller also stressed other changes to the School Act that were worth noting, such as the declaration of the right of access to an education, a new "independent student" clause which recognizes students older than 16 and those between the ages of 16 and 18 and living away from [illegible].

The act will be also more clearly define conflict of interest guidelines for school trustees and allow boards to develop their own programs although the "minister may prohibit them," said Miller.

MLA congratulates 4-H members on work well done

By Shirley Cripps, MLA

On Monday, May 30 I was privileged to be able to attend the Drayton Valley 4-H Beef Interclub show.

It's amazing to see the improvement in calves and clubs showing, year after year. Each 4-H member is to be congratulated on a job well done. A special tribute to the leaders, volunteers and judges who did an excellent job and to the parents who support their children in the 4-H movement.

My compliments to the judge, Dennis Erickson, for doing such a superb job of explaining the reasons for picking his calves, the changes in the grading system and how they affect the 4-H judging. It's really tough for a 4-H member to know what kind of a calf to choose one year to the next.

It's also the first time I've seen a judge talk to every club member after they're judged. The showmanship and grooming judge, Michelle Weitzel, also did an excellent job of giving pointers to the 4-H members.

There are always lots of tears shed when you say goodbye to a special 4-H calf, but the fond memories and the lessons learned will remain.

High school graduates planning for the future may not be aware the following public colleges offer transfer programs to the University of Alberta: Grande Prairie Regional, Grant MacEwan, Keyano, Lakeland, Medicine Hat, Mount Royal and Red Deer.

There are also three private institutions: Kings College, Concordia College and Canadian Union College.

Most of the pint-sized performers enjoyed their opportunity to entertain on the keyboard. Kristy Reich, 4, displays some of that enthusiasm.

Pianists' performance amazes seniors

Claire de lune, London Bridges and Allegro were only a few of the piano selections performed Saturday, May 28, at the Shangra-La Lodge

Fifteen youngsters performed for the seniors and their parents as part of the Drayton Valley Suzuki Recital. For most of the children it was their second concert at the lodge the last one performed in February

Those who had seen their first recital four months ago were amazed by the youngsters' progress. "I think they were wonderful," said one senior

"When they played here last they only played with one hand. This time they played with two and did more difficult tunes," added another spectator

The piano students were performing Saturday as a warm up for their recital in Edmonton later this month

Grant Woynarowich, 8, serenades the audience.

'Any child can be taught'

Everyone is a born musician, says Shin'ichi Suzuki, founder of the Suzuki method of musical instruction.

This may seem hard to believe. As children, many of us were shipped off to weekly music lessons where a frustrated instructor rapped our knuckles if we didn't play correctly.

Receiving little encouragement to practise and learn at home may have also contributed to a loss of enjoyment in music.

Parents often thought if you paid lots of money for lessons the child would learn or else they weren't born with any musical talent.

The Suzuki method opposes many of these ideas. Suzuki's philosophy is: "Any child can be taught superior musical abilities if the correct methods of training and development are used."

Responsibility for the child's development is placed on the parent. The parent attends lessons and practices at home with the child on a daily basis.

Often described as the "mother tongue method," the Suzuki approach teaches the child to "speak before they learn to read."

Children learn first to play music through listening before they learn to read musical notes. Much in the same manner that we learn to speak as infants

Cindy Brooks, a mother of two Suzuki students, is impressed with the progress her children have made. "I took eight years of piano lessons and I can't play as well as my daughter, Amllie," she says.

Drayton Valley's Suzuki students began learning in October 1987.

More than 50 seniors applauded the tots.

A long night for the kids.

Willingness to gamble opens new doors

If you've dined at any local restaurants lately you may have noticed a tiny printing press nestled among the ads on the Evergreen Rodeo promotional placemats.

The printing press is the trademark of Drayton Valley Printers. The frequency of its use shows just how busy the printing shop has been in recent months.

In fact, partners Erich Wagner and Don Regenwetter say business has been steady since the company started up in October 1986.

It's been continuous — an even flow," says Wagner, who has 30 years experience as a printer.

"All our printing is done in-house," he added. The only exceptions are continuous forms, color separations and anything that has to be done on a Web press.

Wagner describes himself as the "inside man," handling the production end of things while Regenwetter concentrates on sales.

A former oil-field truck driver, Regenwetter joined forces with Wagner in April 1987 — something both had been planning for a long time.

The close partnership permits an uncompromising attitude toward the risks encountered in their business.

"It's totally cooperative," noted Wagner. "We've got everything to lose and everything to gain by working together."

The commercial printers work chiefly in the areas of specialized stationery and silk screening, with a majority of its business centering around brochures, business cards and work forms.

Nevertheless, a willingness to gamble continues to push open new doors.

Regenwetter pointed out that a "scratch and win sticker campaign last winter for the Retail Merchants Association was "very satisfying."

It marked the first time such a project, which requires a number of specialized inks, was printed in Western Canada.

"They (the retailers) came to us and asked if it could be done," said Regenwetter. "If anything can be done on paper, Erich can do it."

It was a major coup for the printing shop, which recently moved from its Sekura Auctions location to a larger facility on 54th Street.

The move was necessitated by the purchase of an 18-foot Brown Camera — a top-of-the line, $30,000 machine capable of producing 30"-by-30" negatives.

Both Wagner and Regenwetter associate their ability to compete with Edmonton companies with the pure hustle they put into their work.

"We strive for being the best," said Wagner. "We always strive for top quality and top service at a reasonable price."

Regenwetter said his sales area has been expanding.

We go after any kind of business we can get...we've both lost and won work in Edmonton."

The company currently has six full-time workers and plans to increase this number in order to better utilize its equipment.

Wagner says Drayton Valley Printers is heading in the right direction.

"Our ultimate goal is color work — and lots of it. That's where the printer can display his ultimate craftsmanship."

Prices going up

The price to be paid for Grade A large eggs in June will increase by one cent per dozen in all provinces except Nova Scotia where the price will be the same as in May, the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) announced last week.

The price increase is due to higher feed costs and an increase in interest rates.

CEMA sets the producer price for Grade A large eggs at the beginning of each month using a cost of production formula.

The federal government's National Farm Products Marketing Council is advised of the prices before they are announced.

Please put them in their place

Ray Griff, who spent his early years in Winfield, will be in town June 21

Famous country, western singer no stranger to area

Ray Griff is coming back to Drayton Valley

He will be performing Tuesday, June 21 at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall.

Eight years ago when Griff first appeared in town a standing room only crowd packed into the Elks Hall.

Griff, who was born in Vancouver and calls Nashville, Tennessee his current home is no stranger to the area as he grew up in Winfield

Over the years his name has become synonymous with good country music As a singer, performer and songwriter Griff has earned the nickname 'The Entertainer'

He moved to Winfield when he was three, and later to Calgary In his early teens he formed a group called 'The Blue Echoes' and they played at dance halls and worked on local TV shows From this Griff became a local hero, balancing his musical aspirations along with his well known sporting accomplishments

At the age of 17, Griff received two invitations: one was to participate in the Olympics and the second was from Johnny Horton.

"Horton asked me to go on tour with him about the same time I was supposed to start my Olympic training," Griff recalls

"I decided to go with Johnny At the time it was a difficult decision as music and sports were the loves of my life In retrospect though, the decision was right he added

Indeed, the decision was a good one It not only enabled Griff to meet many influential people and get to know the ropes, but it resulted in one of his songs being recorded by Horton. The song was 'Mr Moonlight' and became Griff's first song released by a major artist

After Horton's death, Griff toured for a while with Jim Reeves and this eventually led him to Nashville in 1964

Some of the albums recorded by Griff include The Middle of the Road, The Entertainer, A Ray of Sunshine Songs For Everyone Expressions, Ray's Bar & Grill, Canada, Maple Leaf, The World of Ray Griff The Last of the Winfield Amateurs My Kind of Country and The Sky Is The Limit.

Bobrownicks celebrate

Approximately 40 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Marion and Mike Bobrownik May 22 to help the couple celebrate their silver anniversary.

Their sons, Phillip and Greg organized the afternoon barbecue with the help of a few friends.

Louise McCulaugh, a close friend and neighbor, spent the afternoon barbecuing the steaks to perfection.

Addie Rosin, another close friend, decorated the pink and white anniversary cake.

Association wants task force

The Alberta Fish and Game Association is asking the provincial government to establish a task force to investigate fish and wildlife managment in Alberta.

In a proposal presented to Minister of Forestry, Lands and Wildlife LeRoy Fjordbotten last week, the association has asked that a task force on fish and wildlife managment be established to review, through public meetings, the 1982 Fish and Wildlife Policy for Alberta and issues which have resulted as components of the policy have been implemented.

In addition, a review of the 1984 Status Declaration of the Fish and Wildlife Resource should be undertaken to ensure progress is being made with respect to the development of species management plans and to determine where shortfalls occur in the supply of various wildlife species.

The 20,000-member association wants the government to establish the task force by Sept. 1, to complete public meetings by April 1, 1989 and to begin implementing recommendations by Sept. 1, [illegible]

Loving the unlovable

Do some people bother you?

Is it possible that there are too many other rats in the race?

Have you found there are too many people trying to go onto the main highway or the freeway at the same time you are trying to get on and off?

Do you discover that a lot of people decide to buy groceries at the same time you do or when you are in a hurry?

Do many of the proverbial Jones and Smiths beat you to your favorite camping spot at Lake Ho Hum -For-Two-Days?

When people get you down the most, do you sometimes feel like the little girl who said to her playmate in a not-so-large sandbox: "If one of us would get out of the box, I would have more room?"

What is your PEQ---People Endurance Quotient?

Let me remind you the PEQ of some of the first disciples

From the Pastor's pen

Pastor Herb Heinemann
Emmaus Lutheran

of our Lord was not all it is sometimes cracked-up to be. There was at least one time when some of them wanted to call napalm down from heaven upon people who had not been as respectful to them as the disciples thought they should be. And some of the religious leaders of the day were so angered at the good life of Jesus that they tried to destroy Him. The only thing that kept them from succeeding was the power of the Resurrection.

The Lord himself had no PEQ at all. Because when you love someone, you do not have to endure them, you are willing to die for them. And that is what the Lord did for every member of the mob that finally lynched Him -- and for every last one of us.

When your Lord Jesus Christ was caught in the crowd, His heart went out to the people. In Matthew 9:36 it says that when He saw the crowd of people, He was moved to tears for them because they were like sheep without a shepherd.

If we are to be true disciples of the Lord, we must be able with His help to do more than endure people---we must love them. And if you think that is a toughassignment, think of what it is like for those who are obliged to love you and me!

Gwen Jonzon is April's Employee of the Month

Top employee earns award

Shell Oil's Gwen Jonzon has been named April's Employee of the Month.

The chamber of commerce selected Jonzon as top employee in the service station attendant category.

Jonzon, who began working at Shell about 10 months ago, said she was thrilled to hear of her selection.

"It lifted my day," she said

Born in Breton, Jonzon has recently returned to the area after spending four years in Edmonton working as a [redacted].

She said dealing with the public is one of the chief reasons why she likes working at the service station.

"You meet a lot of people. It's not the same routine every day."

Jonzon said the job provides her with the opportunity to meet people from all over, most of whom she describes as friendly.

"Unless their cars have broken down and it's Sunday and they can't find a mechanic," Jonzon quipped.

More than 1100 Heart of Gold award nominations received in six weeks

A gold rush of a unique and heartwarming kind is sweeping the nation if initial response to Air Canada's Heart of Gold award is any indication.

In the first six weeks of the program, community newspapers across Canada have been swamped with processing more than 1,100 nominations and the bundle of nominations continues to grow according to regional community newspaper associations.

Nominations are coming from everyone. One of the leading groups of nominators are politicians at the federal, provincial and municipal government levels who, because of their broad knowledge of people and activities within their communities, were quick to welcome this program

Nominations close July 31

The Air Canada Heart of Gold award is run across Canada in partnership with community newspapers and the Canadian Community Newspaper Association. Anyone above the age of 18 is eligible for nomination by completing a ballot printed in your community newspaper or simply by writing a letter including your name, the name of the nominee and the reasons for the nomination and forwarding it to your nearest community newspaper.

Nominees will receive a certificate and be eligible for considerations as a recipient of a Heart of Gold award. Nominations close at the end of July.

Providing services helps build community feeling

4-H news

By Tracy Pfannmuler
Regional 4-H
Summer Assistant

4-H is often thought of as just a youth group in rural areas that requires vast amounts of volunteer work.

However, did you ever stop to think where 4-H fits into the community?

4-H acts as a strong link to help community groups, businesses and individuals to form a working team. In today's society both money and time tend to be limited; therefore, it is important that 4-H and the other groups they interact with, work together!

Throughout the year many individuals and groups support 4-H without asking for anything in return. This support can take a number of forms: time, money, donating a trophy, donating facilities, attending 4-H functions or even providing knowledge (for example, judging public speaking).

To the 4-H club, this kind of assistance is invaluable. The way 4-H can act as a member of the team is by providing an exchange to the community for their support. 4-Hers can provide a number of services such as repairing the community hall, building park benches for the town, working at bingos or local fairs, painting the arena bleachers and the list goes on.

By providing these services, 4-H helps to build a strong community feeling because it not only takes from, but also gives back to its community. It is very important a club who continually receives support must also return the favor. So for next year, begin thinking of ways that your club can say "thank you" while helping to better your community.

Also, I would like each member and leader to take a moment now to reflect over the past 4-H year and think of all the valuable knowledge or skills you have gained while you're at it, take a minute to make a mental note of the type of accomplishments you wish to achieve for next year.

Engineering Technology Career Programs

Every year hundreds of men and women embark on challenging and rewarding careers after graduating from one of NAIT's highly regarded engineering technology programs. NAIT grads have a reputation for being "job-ready" because of the practical and rigorous training they receive. Employers like that.

- Building Construction Engineering Technology
- Civil Engineering Technology
- Engineering Sciences Technology (new program)
- Materials Engineering Technology

Some openings may be available in other engineering technology programs due to cancellations by accepted applicants. Enrolment in all NAIT programs is limited by quotas. Early application is therefore recommended.

Medicare no longer a vote-getter, politicians in a bind

Medically Speaking

By Dr. Bob Young

The politicians and the cost of health care are examined here in the second of our three-part mini-series.

It can be argued that our elected representatives, through the years, have been the major culprits in the present health care costs crisis. There is no doubt provisions of low- or no-cost health care coverage have great appeal to voters, and politicians were quick to recognize this in years gone by.

We also live in a country that has become used to government handouts such as baby bonus cheques, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, subsidies and other goodies. We, in a "socialized" environment, expect these things as our right, and howl, usually successfully, at any suggestion that benefits should be reduced.

The politicians, I feel, have been caught in a Medicare bind. While they can control UIC payments or baby bonuses, they have little control of health expenditures unless they ration access, a method that appears to becoming more common. The Canada Health Act, supported by all parties, almost guarantees that cost increases will occur, as it guarantees free access to all.

Medicare is no longer a vote-getter for the politicians. It has become, as they say, a negative.

Having given the candy to the populace, they are now taking it back, "deinsuring" services that used to be covered. Predictably, the blame the doctors.

No government is likely to be brave (or sensible) enough to institute a deductible clause or other deterrant into the system. Asking all of us (pensioners, welfare recipients, and the poor excluded) to take some direct financial responsibility for our own health care ("Why not - it's our body") would bring some realism into the system, and, I feel, dramatically reduce costs.
